The revelation that Russian interference took aim at the Pittsburgh Penguins was as disturbing as it was shocking. The Washington Post reported Monday night that the Russians attempted to hack into the computers of the Penguins and other teams. Penguins' Vice President of communications Pat Mastroianni had this to say in regards to the report: "The Pittsburgh Penguins are deeply concerned and disturbed by the alleged hacking attempts. We have immediately contacted the NHL and shared our concerns. We will take appropriate legal action." The Penguins are among the bigger teams on the ice with a tremendous financial impact in the NHL. The Washington Capitals, the Penguins' Metropolitan Division rival, have averaged roughly 29,000 fans at their home games this season. The Penguins averaged a sellout of approximately 20,000 per game at the PPG Paints Arena. The one of the biggest games of the playoffs could be at the Consol Energy Center. The Penguins are moving into the Stanley Cup playoffs and host the Washington Capitals on Tuesday in the first round. There is no fix for this sort of play. The next days could be critical to the Penguins playoff hopes.
Pages Thursday, August 5, 2010 (a new review) Black T-shirts are in fashion now, but i always feel like a black T-shirt kinda person. Black T-shirts were always cool to me as the basic T-shirt. The black T-shirt always goes with everything. The basic T-shirts are the basic T-shirts now? I know that makes me feel old, and even a little bitter. Even if it is true. But by the same token, I don't even know if there is a new basic T-shirt now. Case in point: Pimax at their earliest press conference. This is the way people are wearing them

Image DeCap is an efficient and simplistic piece of software designed from the ground up to make it possible for you to capture portions of your screen and share them with the least amount of effort. A more modern replacement for the once popular Hyperdesktop app
The first thing you should know is the fact that this app actually aims to be a modern replacement for the popular, but now outdated, Hyperdesktop. Just like in the case of the last mentioned app, Image DeCap uses the Imgur photo sharing service to upload and share your screenshots. In the same respect, it also comes with a minimalist user-interface and a compact main window. If you are familiar with Hyperdesktop, you might notice right off the bat that the app comes with an additional feature, namely it makes it possible for you to upload your clipboard text directly to pastebin (a web app for storing plain text). Effortlessly capture the area from any active window or your whole screen
Arriving at what matters, Image DeCap offers you the possibility to either capture the region of any active window, the whole area of your desktop / screen or custom regions. Despite its evident simplicity, a lot more thought has gone into making Image DeCap than you might originally think. For example, you can capture custom regions of your screen with a single mouse click on its main window or you can take advantage of the designated keyboard shortcut (CTRL + SHIFT + 4). A nice touch is the fact this feature comes with a small preview window that magnifies the area around your mouse pointer, making it very easy for you to accurately capture screen regions. Comes with a basic set of editing tools to customize your screenshots
Regardless of the chosen screen capturing method, the app automatically displays the screenshot and provides you with a set of basic editing tools. In a few words, you can easily add text or manually draw using a brush tool. What is more, you can choose from a small set of colors for both your brush or the text, as well as increase or decrease their footprint. Finally, your screenshot is automatically uploaded to Imgur and a link to its location is placed in your computer's clipboard. The whole process is accompanied by small pop-up messages in the system tray. Simple to use software solution for capturing and sharing screenshots
Clearly, Image DeCap nowhere near the best screen capturing or sharing app out there. But, thanks its overall simplicity and straightforward workflow, it surely is one of the fastest and most lightweight and simplest apps b7e8fdf5c8

Image DeCap Pro is a professional screen capture software with lots of useful features. How to use this app: To begin with, the application also allows you to capture multiple screen shots and store them in a single tab (just like when you use Hyperdesktop). Once you do the necessary setup, just press "Capture" and "Start" buttons on the application window. The application will begin immediately (this is after performing the necessary system-related settings). The application comes with a batch area, which contains a small picture editor. You can use this editor to resize, crop, rotate, and flip the capture area. You can also add/edit text and insert photo/video. You can draw straight lines and curves as well. You can even use it to transform a photo or a video to a screen shot by using the batch area. The application comes with a number of utilities.

- Create and edit a custom clipboard.
- Paste(st) text, image, and video (from the clipboard) directly to the editor.
- Copy the captured screen to the clipboard.
- Fix screen captures of broken or incomplete images.
- Remove unwanted images from the editor.
- Pinch to zoom in on the editor.
- Enhance the editor with new features.

Notice: - This app requires a camera application to create screen captures. You can use that application. I recommend that you use the default Picture tool available on Windows OS.

- Multilingual (English, Japanese, French, Spanish, Italian, Korean, Arabic, Russian, Portuguese)
